Reference Letter for Mr. Chenxi Guo

To Whom It May Concern,

Mr. Chenxi “Richard” Guo worked as a key team member in his ELEC5620 Model Based Software Engineering project team. He made a significant contribution to the completion and delivery of a web-based project about AWS serverless system based on Node.js, React, Next.js, MongoDB, AWS S3 bucket, AWS SES, AWS instance and appropriately managed the project by using Jira software.

Richard is enthusiastic and committed to delivering quality outcomes and has a great deal of attention to details. He represented the team and their delivered outcomes in several communications with the ELEC5620 teaching team very well.

Richard had excellent performance in this course and got a high grade in this course that proved that he has good self-control ability and good self-learning attitude and ability.

I strongly believe that his technical skills, learning ability, enthusiasm and commitment can get him started in a wide range of roles despite being at an early stage of his career.
